

DARPA Conference Center Visitor Requirements (All Meetings)

PRIVACY POLICY, DISCLAIMER, AND DISCLOSURES

PLEASE READ CAREFULLY BEFORE PROVIDING ANY PERSONAL INFORMATION.

DARPA requires personally identifiable information (PII) to respond to requests from individuals and/or organizations wishing to access a DARPA facility or program (visit request). Any PII provided to DARPA in the context of a visit request will only be used to respond to that request. DARPA will not create profiles from individual or organizational information and will not provide such information to any entity for commercial purposes.

The electronic transmission of PII requires sender prudence. The responsibility to safeguard PII remains with the party transmitting it. Once received by DARPA, PII is temporarily secured in a controlled network environment, subject to limited role-based access, and safeguarded against unauthorized use or disclosure.

DARPA's use of PII in the context of a visit request is not an information collection. Individuals or organizations that provide PII to DARPA (by themselves, or on their behalf by a third-party) are deemed as engaging with DARPA in their entrepreneurial capacity and are also deemed to be providing consent for DARPA's legitimate use of their PII. If accessing this form through a third-party website (to obtain and/or complete this form, or for other related purposes), you will be informed of additional third-party privacy policies and procedures (non-DoD, non-DARPA) at the point-of-entry to that website.

DARPA may disclose PII to authorized personnel (including contractors) and other Federal organizations (including intelligence and law enforcement agencies) that have an official need-to-know or when reasonably necessary to protect the interests of the DoD, DARPA, or the public-at-large.

Providing PII is voluntary. However, failure to do so will prevent access to a DARPA facility or program.
